Yesterday, I talked about some of the practical steps that you need to follow when you want to become PECB Certified Lead Implementer. In this article, I want to talk about some of the reasons why you should consider becoming a Certified Lead Implementer. Trust me, it is one of the best decisions that you will ever take in life. Lets look at some of those reasons together in this article.

#1 Leading BCMS Implementation

When you write the Lead Implementer exam and you are able to pass the exam , it makes you fully qualified to be in charge in of Business Continuity Management System. If you have all the pre-requisite knowledge and you have not written and passed the exam, you will not be recognised as being qualified to Lead a Business Continuity Management process in an organisation.

#2 Independent And Formal Recognition

Writing the lead Implementer Exam will also gives you an independent and formal recognition of your personal competencies. You will be considered as being qualified to lead a Business Continuity Management process. You need to know that disruption is what happens not every time, having the certification will show that you are more that capable of leading the organisation when any disruption happens.

#3 Earn Higher

One thing is very clear, employers do not really care about what you can do, they are more concerned about your certifications. It is not the certificate obtained that will perform the function, what certification bodies and your employers want to see is the certification that you have obtained. This is also the key that open doors to higher salary than a non certified individual.
